

PRESENTS:

2009 IECC PERFORMING RESIDENTIAL ENERGY INSPECTIONS

OCTOBER 7, 2011

LEARN THE FUNDAMENTALS PERFORMING RESIDENTIAL ENERGY INSPECTIONS

This seminar discusses critical concepts of residential field inspection under the provisions of the 2009 International Energy Conservation Code. This course is intended to help identify those areas that were approved in plan review and insure compliance with the 2009 IECC. This course does not contain an overview of the IECC as it is presumed that the attendees are familiar with that code. This seminar will be excellent not only for inspectors but also those who perform the work in the field that is inspected.

THE INSTRUCTOR FOR THE SEMINAR WILL BE: Shirley Muns, CBO

Shirley Muns is the Codes and Regulations Manager at U.S. Greenfiber in Charlotte, NC. Shirley is a Certified Building Official and since 1981 has held a variety of jobs in the building industry including Residential Inspector and Plan Reviewer, Commercial High-Rise Building Inspector, and Chief Building Official. She has worked with the Green Building Program at Austin Energy and at Austin Community College as an Adjunct Professor.

Recently, Shirley was the Codes Specialist at the Energy System Laboratory, Texas A&M University System. Shirley currently serves the International Code Council as a member of the IECC Code Development Committee and as a contractor instructor providing Energy code training along with fundamental Building and Residential code and inspection training. She has received the President's Award for her exceptional ability and dedication to training from the Greater Austin Home Builders Association, in 2003; the Industry award from the Building Officials in Texas, in 2005; and the Affiliate of the Year award given for her commitment to the development of codes and standards in the interest of public safety from the ICC in 2006.
